Keepataw Grand Marshall. . .

Archie Ludwig

Ludwig lives by motto

LEMONT — Archie Ludwig, this year's Grand Marshall of the Keepataw Days Parade, once chose a motto by which to live his life: "Life is motion, idleness is death."

He has lived up to the motto in his 21 years as president of the elementary school board, three years as a village board member and as a farmer. Now, at the age of 70, he works as an assistant superintendent of the Cook County forest preserve.

"In the 30 years I have served Lemont, I have never been a politician, I have always been a public servant with my goal set on creating a better community for my children and the generations to come," he says.

Ludwig lives on the corner of 131st Street and Derby Road on a farm bought by his father in 1907. Two large barns in the back of the house once served as his father's blacksmith shop.

In his two-story house, Ludwig has reared three children, one son and two daughters.

"The generations of today are different than of years before and this is why I believe in looking at every situation with an open mind. I have had a fruitful life and maybe this attitude has helped it to be so," he says.

Being selected Grand Marshall of Keepataw Days parade is an honor for Ludwig who has seen the annual celebration grow over its 21 years.

"The Keepataw Days haven't changed for the most part," he recalls. "The only minor changes are that a lot more people come to the parade and carnival, the parade is much bigger and the carnival is much larger."

"These times are good times and are enjoyed by many people."

City council, police at odds over salary

by Marge Ratcliffe

LOCKPORT — The Lockport City Council and the Lockport Police Department are still at odds over police salaries.

At the council's August 17 meeting, Patrolmen James Lambert, Leroy Irvin, and Dennis Fitzgerald appeared representing the department and giving the council their "final offer."

Lambert said they had come down as far as they felt they could. "We would like a 10 percent increase retroactive to July 1, and a three percent increase November 1. We request two benefits; an additional $10 from the city per month for hospitalization and the following vacation schedule; three weeks for employees after eight years service, four weeks after 12 years, and five weeks after 16 years."

Alderman Swen Nelson, mayor pro tem in the absence of George Nordstrom, chided Lambert regarding a published report that Nelson had offered to let Lambert and his committee "go over the books," stating he could not have made such a proposal, because he is not the city treasurer. He said he had told Lambert he could look at the appropriation ordinance.

Nelson reiterated his previous stand on the subject of increased police salaries, stating the city does not have sufficient funds to provide raises. He said the city could have a special election in the spring and ask the voters to approve a police tax which would provide the money.

Lambert said there were many opportunities for addi-

He and his wife, Patricia, are the parents of six children ages 8 to 21, reside in Winfield.

S&S Sink Top, Frankfort agree on road vacation

FRANKFORT -- An agreement has been reached between the village board and the S & S Sink Top Co. under which the village will vacate a portion of Elsner Road and S & S will give the village a 66-foot wide strip of land along the north line of its property.

This strip will connect with Elsner Road and U. S. 45. When the street is vacated S & S will use it and a tract of land to the west to expand its plant, it was explained.

Attorney George E. Sangmeister, who represents S & S, will send a legal description of the strip to Village Attorney August Santoro, along with a formal petition for the vacation of some 600 feet of Elsner Road off U.S. 45, and a description of it.

Jerry Sager, of S & S, was present with Attorney Sangmeister and agreed to the proposed exchange. Village board members told him they would not consider the vacation unless they had a 66-foot strip of land which eventually will serve to connect the open end of Elsner Road and U.S. 45.

There was considerable discussion about costs of extending sewer and water mains south along Center Road to serve the proposed Bradley match factory. At a previous meeting John Djerf, of Robert E. Hamilton Consultant Engineers, village engineers for Frankfort, had estimated the cost at $15 a lineal foot for both mains. At last week's session he said that as far as they were aware, this figure was still realistic.

Trustee Jerry Osmus asked whether the extension would threaten the capacity of the sewage treatment plant, and whether the property owners should be subject to the increased tap-on scale the village board now is considering. Under this scale the tap on fee would run to $1,500 an acre, or $500 for a single family connection. Other trustees and Djerf did not think giving the match factory a sewer connection would overtax the present treatment facilities and they believed that the present tap-on fee of $250 would be sufficient.

Bradley, Mobil Chemical and Vogelmann would share the cost of the sewer and water extension on a per foot basis, Mayor Warning said. Mobil has sewer and water service but it willing to go along with the project if it will benefit the village and their neighbors, the mayor added. Vogelmann has service in the building he occupies but has a five-acre tract between his occupied land and the Bradley site.

In the near future, the state water board will require further upgrading of sewage treatment facilities at Frankfort, the trustees have been informed. The state, it was explained, is not interested in extending aid to expand treatment facilities but it does want them improved.

The mayor urged the water and sewer committee to review the ordinance covering the proposed increase in tap-ons and make a recommendation to the board at its next meeting. New Lenox already has adopted such an ordinance, and Mokena is preparing to do the same. Current fees, it was said, are not realistic.

The village has been striving to get property owners on Lincoln Lane, Connecticut Hills, where there are some apartments, to widen the street and install curbs and gutters. George Helgersen, who owns two of the lots, has committed himself to pay $2,200 on such improvements. Other developers also have agreed to pay their shares.

Trustee Lynn Kohlhaugen, chairman of the street department, hopes to also win the cooperation of the owner of a single family residence, and said when the project was brought up it was not the intent to have any of the cost fall on the village.

At last week's session the bid of Persico Construction, of Rockdale, was $15,599.97, was the lowest of the only two submitted. This would make the cost run about $1,550 per lot. No action will be taken on the bid until the next meeting, Sept. 8. By that time, the board hopes the developers will have their cash on the line. The village probably will have to pay some of the bill but it is not going to pick up the tab, the trustees said. The other bid, by Crown-Trygg was some $29,000.

The board adopted an ordinance amending the zoning code to re-classify two lots owned by Herbert P. Folkers on Kansas Street from I-1 to R-1.

Folkers was present and the mayor took the occasion to remind him that weeds on the property needed cutting.

"What?," said Folkers, in mock resentment, "You are calling wild carrots weeds?"

He added, however, that he would see they were cut.

Hunt slayer of girl

JOLIET -- New England police are looking for the slayer of 13-year-old Mary Catherine Olenchuk, daughter of Brig. Gen. Peter Olenchuk, commandant of the Army Ammunition Supply Agency at the Joliet arsenal.

The body of the child, who had been missing two weeks, was found under a hay pile in a vacant barn on an abandoned farm, 10 miles from the Olenchuk's summer home at Kennebunk, Maine. She had been strangled with rope.

The parents identified a T-shirt found near the body as that of their daughter and a comparison of fingerprints was expected to complete the identification.

Police were reported to have been questioning a hitchhiker Sunday who is said to fit the general description of a man the girl was seen talking with on Aug. 9. Police were told that she was seen getting into a faded maroon colored car with this person and drove away.

A pair of searchers from the many who have been hunting through the area for a trace of the missing girl found the body last Saturday.

No one has resided on the farm where the body was found for half a century, police said, but of late hippies have been camping there.

Lemont reading program ends

LEMONT -- The summer reading program at the Lemont Public Library has ended with all the children completing the requirements for a reading certificate during June, July and August, according to Librarian Helen Witt.

Certificates of achievement will be presented to each child who read 20 books at 2 p.m. Friday at the library.

Sept. 3 is date for hearing over police equipment

MOKENA -- The replevin action brought by the Village of Mokena is an endeavor to gain possession of certain equipment purchased by the Mokena Police Association has been continued until Thursday, Sept. 3.

Hearing on the writ was scheduled for last Friday morning in circuit court at Joliet at the request of attorneys.

The action had its start about midnight July 21. That was when Wayne Ryder, then chief of police, and four of the part-time officers, Dale Reils, James Fetzner, Gary Bednar and Dennis Ferovick, and the three radio operators resigned.

These officers and two who did not resign, Harold Fitch and Leonard Robbins, made up the Mokena Police Association. Ryder has been president of the association since it was formed in 1968. He also was singled out for the replevin action, the Village of Mokena, claiming that he is retaining possession of equipment which it says is village property. The lists includes a walkie-talkie, two radio scanners, a storage trunk, flashlights, car decals, magnetic police signs, shirt patches, a hand aspirator, a tape recorder, a camera and an ISPERN radio. (The ISPERN set belongs to the state and was assigned to Ryder's personal car, it was explained. He awaits the state's instructions.)

The association met last Thursday night in Ryder's home. Present were Ryder, Ferovick, and Reils, in person, and Bednar and Fetzner through proxies prepared by Attorney Lawrence Stukel, who also was present. Stukel and Attorney Tom Powers, Mokena, (now on vacation) represented the association. Fetzner and Bednar were out of town. Fitch and Robbins came in after the meeting was started.

A motion was adopted to endeavor to sell the equipment, listed in the writ of replevin, to the Village of Mokena or any interested purchaser if the association is declared the owner, and the proceeds turned over to William Martin Post, VFW, of Mokena, to be used for activities of benefit to the youth of the area. All of the cash assets of the association remaining, will also go to VFW for the same purpose. "The members voted to pay the expenses of defending Ryder in the replevin action from its funds."

When Fitch, who is the temporary acting chief of the Mokena police department entered the room he said that had he and Robbins known the association would have an attorney present they would have brought one too.

They sat through the business meeting and left when it was adjourned.

"I am sure surprised," Fitch said as he took his departure. "I thought we had men on the police department and find we just had a bunch of kids."

Fitch also gave the attorney and Ryder a letter he had written but did not ask that it be included as a part of the business.

"We are not here to participate in this meeting that you called," the letter read, being addressed to "Wayne Ryder (former Mokena police chief and former Mokena Police Association president), "but rather to express our beliefs and report to anyone concerned about the latest event of the Mokena Police Association."

"We feel that the people that resigned from the Mokena police department are no longer members of the Mokena Police Association because as you know from the past, that anyone who resigned from the Mokena police department was automatically removed from the Mokena Police Association."

"The members of the Mokena police department had a Mokena Police Association meeting last night to discuss the situation and decided that since I was vice president, I would not assume the presidency and Officer Robbins would now be the secretary-treasurer."

"The Mokena Police Association will continue in operation, under our control and we expect to have all its assets at our disposal."

"We are awaiting the results of the legal action taken by the Village of Mokena against you, before taking any further action on our own, at this time."

It was signed, Harold O. Fitch, president of the Mokena Police Association."

Ryder explained the presence of Attorney Stukel.

"Because there were rumors that made us anticipate difficulties at the association meeting last Thursday night, we asked our attorney to be present."

"He advised that a very factual accounting of the meeting be made. This was accomplished by hiring a legal secretary, who took down all the proceedings. She will provide us with a complete transcript of all the business conducted. The fact that we also had the press represented should indicate that we have nothing to hide. We don't believe in private, executive meetings when they concern public business."

Naturally, the business of the association relative to the youth program is at a standstill pending outcome of the legal action against me.

"The two remaining officers on the police force, Harold Fitch and Leonard Robbins, who were and still are members of the association as far as we are concerned, were present. They advised us that they had formed a new organization with themselves as president and secretary-treasurer."

tional revenue which the city has not investigated. He proposed a tax on vending machines and businesses. Nelson responded, "We can't tax the merchants out of business."

"We got into this problem when we added another policeman," Nelson said, referring to the creation of an investigative officer, a post held by Lieutenant Robert Miller.

Lambert said Miller's job had been five years late in the making and that the appointment had resulted in solutions to four out of five cases the department handled.

Officers Irvin and Lambert asked the council to vote on the proposal, since there was a quorum present. The council did not vote, explaining they would prefer to do so when the mayor had returned to the city.

"You have put us off since May and for two hours tonight," Lambert said. "We're here to protect the people of Lockport. We have families too, which we don't get to see too often. Our requests are not unreasonable."

Alderman Jim Miller told Lambert and Irvin that the police had been patient, but they would have to be patient just a while longer. Irvin asked, "Why do we get slighted? Why is it always this way? We thought there might be some kind of decision tonight, since this is our last offer."

Both Lambert and Irvin said the police would definitely not walk off the job. They stated their responsibility is to the people in Lockport. Lambert then asked the council if there was anyone on the board who did not make $9,000 a year. (The current top salary for a patrolman is $8,000 per year. The police are seeking a top of $9,200.) He did not receive an answer.

The council again told the patrolmen they felt they should not vote without the mayor in attendance. Irvin said they had voted on several other issues, but was told those did not involve finances. When it became apparent that a vote would not be taken, the policemen left the meeting.

In other business, the council voted to restore the area at the west end of Fifth Street to its original condition, so that it can be used as a parking lot for commuters.

Several weeks ago, a group of commuters appeared at a meeting to protest the erection of No Parking signs which had been placed in the area by homeowners on either side of the area involved. It has since been determined that the site is a city street and the area on each side of it, where commuters parked, is parkway owned by the city.

John Bessler, representing a firm which makes modular homes, one of which was recently constructed in the city, asked the council for permission to erect another one on South Street. He was denied permission on the grounds that the houses cannot be inspected according to a city ordinance because they are pre-plumbed and wired.

Grant Lawrence, the city zoning officer was present at the meeting and said he had refused a building permit, in effect, due to controversy over the houses. He recommended the council decide "once and for all" whether they were going to allow development of the homes, and not approve them one at a time.

Bessler proposed the houses would be inspected during construction at the plant where they are made and then a verified report would be sent to the zoning officer and building inspector. The council said they would prefer to have their own city officers inspect the houses. Alderman Richard Cronholm told Bessler that they could not keep giving individual okays and that a city ordinance would have to be changed if construction was allowed.

The council told Bessler they would come to a decision on the matter by September 8.

John Djerf told the council that bids on a proposed stoplight at Route 7 and 7th Street ran about 50 percent higher than his estimates and that he could not recommend that the council accept them. The city will re-advertise for bids on the project, and open bids on August 31.

John Andriotes, director of the Special Education Co-Operative, located at the corner of 11th and Hamilton Streets, asked the council to consider providing parking spaces, specifically for the use of special education employees and buses which will deliver children to the school. He would also like to have the area posted with signs indicating children are in the area. The matter was referred to Gordon McCluskey, director of public works. He was told to contact the street department and see what arrangements can be worked out. Don Murphy, city clerk, said the matter was a special problem and should be treated as such.

Eugene Korst, city attorney, reported that Harold Marquardt had paid a total of $195 for overdue parking tickets. Marquardt is the owner of the Lockport Body Shop.

In final business, the council approved payment of bills, with the exception of a $220 bill sent to the city by Marquardt for towing cars. Korst recommended the council get an itemized listing of all cars Marquardt hauled, who gave the authority for towing, and where they were taken.

corporate limits but within a mile and a half radius. A municipality with a comprehensive plan must file it with the county recorder, it was said, if it is to be effective for the mile and a half range.

The board hopes to have the ordinance and plan in force soon.

The board also is making preparation of an ordinance providing for snow removal under which parking would be prohibited on all streets during the night, when the snow reaches two inches at a designated spot, probably the village hall parking lot.

If streets were clear of cars it would expedite the snow removal, it was explained.

Also the board is waiting on a revision of sections of the ordinance covering weed cutting.

Peter Blasio, North Elm Drive, appeared before the board to protest pick up of garbage from those Inner Drive residents who are outside the village limits. He was informed that the village was not paying for such pick-ups, that either the resident was paying or the scavenger firm was doing it free. It was also brought out there is another scavenger who serves the area.

Fairmont School to be on double shifts

By Marge Ratcliffe

LOCKPORT -- Fairmont Grade School will be on double shifts this fall, to compensate for classrooms lost in a recent $1 million fire.

The A.F. Hill School, in the same district, will have regular sessions for third and fourth grade from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The schedule for Fairmont School is as follows: the morning session will be from 8 a.m. to noon, with fifth and sixth graders housed in the north wing and first grade and kindergarten in the south wing. Kindergarten hours are 9 to 11:30 a.m.

The afternoon session are from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., except kindergarten classes, which are 12:30 to 3 p.m. Seventh and eighth grade classes will report to the north wing, while second grade will be in the south wing with afternoon kindergarten classes.

John Witkowski, assistant superintendent of the district, said the plan would utilize all the facilities. Witkowski and Elmer Wilhelm, superintendent, presented a housing plan to the district school board at a special meeting Thursday, August 20.

Their original plan specified kindergarten and first grade classes at A. F. Hill, but several board members felt older classes should be in the building. However, members Ernest Banks and Troy McElrath agreed with the administration's original plan, stating first grade is important to children and they should be offered a full day, if possible.

William Babich said he would be in favor of any classes attending A.F. Hill except kindergarten and first. He suggested seventh and eighth grades as an alternate plan.

Witkowski said the plan must be worked out to accommodate the students, and that desk sizes pose problems. He pointed out that Hill School was a primary school and that blackboards were lower, etc. There are also no shower facilities at Hill School.

In other business, the board announced that the building and grounds committee would meet on Friday with the school's insurance adjuster, to determine if the remaining damaged part of Fairmont School should be demolished. There are several classrooms in the section, which were heavily damaged in the fire.

Boyd Bucher, superintendent of the Will County Educational Service Region, was at the meeting, and stated the building is an "attractive nuisance" and that he feared children would be hurt exploring the building. The board said they intended to erect an eight-foot plywood fence around the building, for safety measures.

Bucher's office is the final authority as to whether or not the building will be condemned and destroyed. The school's architect, John Semitek, has recommended demolition. (However, at the Friday meeting, the adjuster reported further tests were needed to determine whether the building can be repaired.)

(Since the two reports are conflicting, Bucher will have the building inspected by a third engineer and the Will County Building Inspector. When he has received all three reports, he will decide if the building should be torn down. Bucher said his main concern is to do what is right for the district. The engineer and building inspector were scheduled to look at the building on Monday, August 24.)

At a prior special meeting Friday August 14, the board awarded a contract to the R.C. Lif Construction Company for emergency and "stop-gap" repairs on the remaining classrooms at Fairmont.

Board president Matt Viscum said the board was able to dispense with competitive bidding on this item, because it is an emergency and must be done immediately, in order to open school on schedule, September 1.

The contract was awarded after long discussion. Ernest Banks, chairman of the building and grounds committee, complained he had not met with the architect, the adjuster or Lif. He said he felt if he was to do his job well, he would like to be part of all decisions. He added that although he was chairman of the committee, he felt he was not functioning as its head. He cast the one "no" vote on the contract.

Subsequently, Viscum appointed Frank Burich and William Babich to assist Banks with his committee, to meet with insurance people, engineers and architects.

N.L. short copies of new zoning ordinance

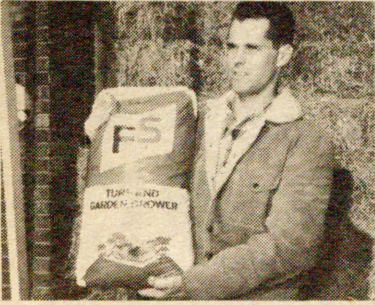

NEW LENOX -- The village board is striving to stir Tec-Search, city planners, into supplying three copies of the new zoning ordinance which the board approved July 15. Before it can become effective, however, the board must publish a notice that at least three copies of the ordinance in pamphlet form are on hand at the village hall where anyone interested in their provisions may read them.

This ordinance is quite lengthy, so voluminous in fact that the law permits publication in pamphlet form (this is translated by villages to mean copies by means of mimeograph, copier or photostat) rather publication in a newspaper.

The New Lenox planning-zoning commission has been working with Tec-Search for several years. Originally Tec-Search compiled a comprehensive plan for New Lenox but a public hearing was never held after its compilation, and it has never been adopted. Therefore, no such plan is on record at the courthouse. This means, it has been pointed out, that the subdivision ordinance Tec-Search now is compiling would have no effect on developments outside the

'Charlie' marks 50 years with Lemont fire dept.

LEMONT — Members of the Lemont Fire Department honored one of their own Aug. 8 with a surprise party for Charles Woods who marked 50 years of active participation in the department.

Woods, 214 Lincoln St., joined the department in 1920 under the leadership of Chief Ignatius Sniegowski and was elevated to secretary of the department. He then progressed through the ranks to hold the title of Assistant Chief until he retired from responding to alarms in 1954.

When the fire bell rang years ago, Woods recalls, the townspeople would unhitch their teams of horses from their wagons and race to the firebarn to pull the steam and chemical wagon to the fire.

"We can all rest comfortably in our beds knowing that we are protected by modern day equipment and dedicated firemen," he said.

He recited the following poem, "The Siren":

"The siren wailing in the night—an eerie sound indeed. Means someone is in trouble, "Dear God, Bring help", they plead. To some folks a siren means nothing, annoying others say, But it brings relief to some poor soul—cause help is on the way. And to some who hear the siren, it's wail is an urgent call. For they are the dedicated men who must go and give their all. For them it may mean hours of work and no more sleep that night. And each fireman's wife is hoping that her man will be all right. Yes, the way the siren affects you, depends on your point of view. When you hear it, say a prayer for the fireman who risks his life for you.

Chief Schoonveld of the Summit Fire Department who dropped in to give his congratulations to Woods said, "That if it were not for the men like Mr. Woods who give of themselves to the fire service, dedications and loyalty, instilling in the new young firemen the spirit of devotion and fraternal brotherhood to our brother firemen, we would not have the departments we have today."

Seventy-two firemen attended the party including several of earlier days. They included Carl Erickson who joined in 1927, August Fischer who joined in 1934 and is deputy chief of the department, Leroy Nelson in 1938 and Joseph Slivinski in 1938. All of the men except Fischer have retired from responding to alarms, but are active in other ways.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maske, daughter and son-in-law of Woods, also were present for the party and presentation of a color television to "Charlie."

Present to help Charlie Woods celebrate 50 years with the Lemont Fire Department are (from left) Carl

Lockport police are put off and put down, too

Three men from the Lockport Police Department appeared at the Lockport City Council meeting last Monday night.

When citizens show up at council meetings, the council consistently suspends the rules, and gives residents the opportunity to air their problems or suggestions. This is a courtesy, so that visitors will not have to wait until all council business has been accomplished before they are given an opportunity to speak.

The rules were suspended, as usual, and several groups heard. The commuters, who have no place to park, are upset. They spoke to the council.

Two members of the business community spoke to the council. A representative of a housing company presented his problems.

The police waited.

The city zoning officer made some remarks. The city heard a report on a proposed stop-light at seventh street. Another resident asked for clarification of the liquor ordinances. The new director of the Special Education Co-Operative spoke to the council.

All these people had legitimate problems and certainly deserved to be heard. Two hours after the meeting had begun, the police department was recognized.

Why? One of the policemen asked the council if the police were not as important as the west end of Fifth Street. His question was quite in order.

Patrolman James Lambert offered the police salary proposal to the council and asked them to vote on it. There was a quorum, although the Mayor is out of town, and two aldermen were absent. A vote could have been taken.

A couple of the councilmen appeared to be wrestling with their thoughts or maybe their consciences. For a few moments, it looked like somebody would make a motion. But nobody did.

Lambert said he felt like a second class citizen. The council said the police had been patient, and must be patient just a little longer. Lambert again asked them to vote. They said they wanted to wait until the Mayor was present.

The council voted on many other issues, without the Mayor. The city does, perhaps, have money problems. Several have said they would be happy to give the police department a raise, if only the money could be found.

Common courtesy is not expensive. There is no excuse for completely ignoring three people, who it might be remembered, have not had attacks of Blu Flu, who have not called in outside help, who continue to protect the people of this community.

Letters

To the Editor:

Most of us who live in Lincolnwood Hills subdivision chose to settle down and raise our children here, because we came from one of the larger dirty cities. We immediately found that the rural charm, wide-open spaces, clean air and serene atmosphere of this area was just what we liked. How sweet it was, one could lie in bed summer mornings and listen to the birds singing. Our sons enjoyed watching and feeding small wild animals, and exploring nearby fields. But above all, it was so peaceful here.

Well, here is the situation as it is now. One awakens in the morning to the loud roar of motorcycles zooming up and down the road. One retires in the evening to the same nuisance.

Letters to the editor from Southwest Graphic readers are welcomed. Letters should not exceed 300 words and must be the original copy. Each must be signed, though the name of the writer will not be published if requested. The Southwest Graphic will exercise the right to edit letters to comply with these limitations.

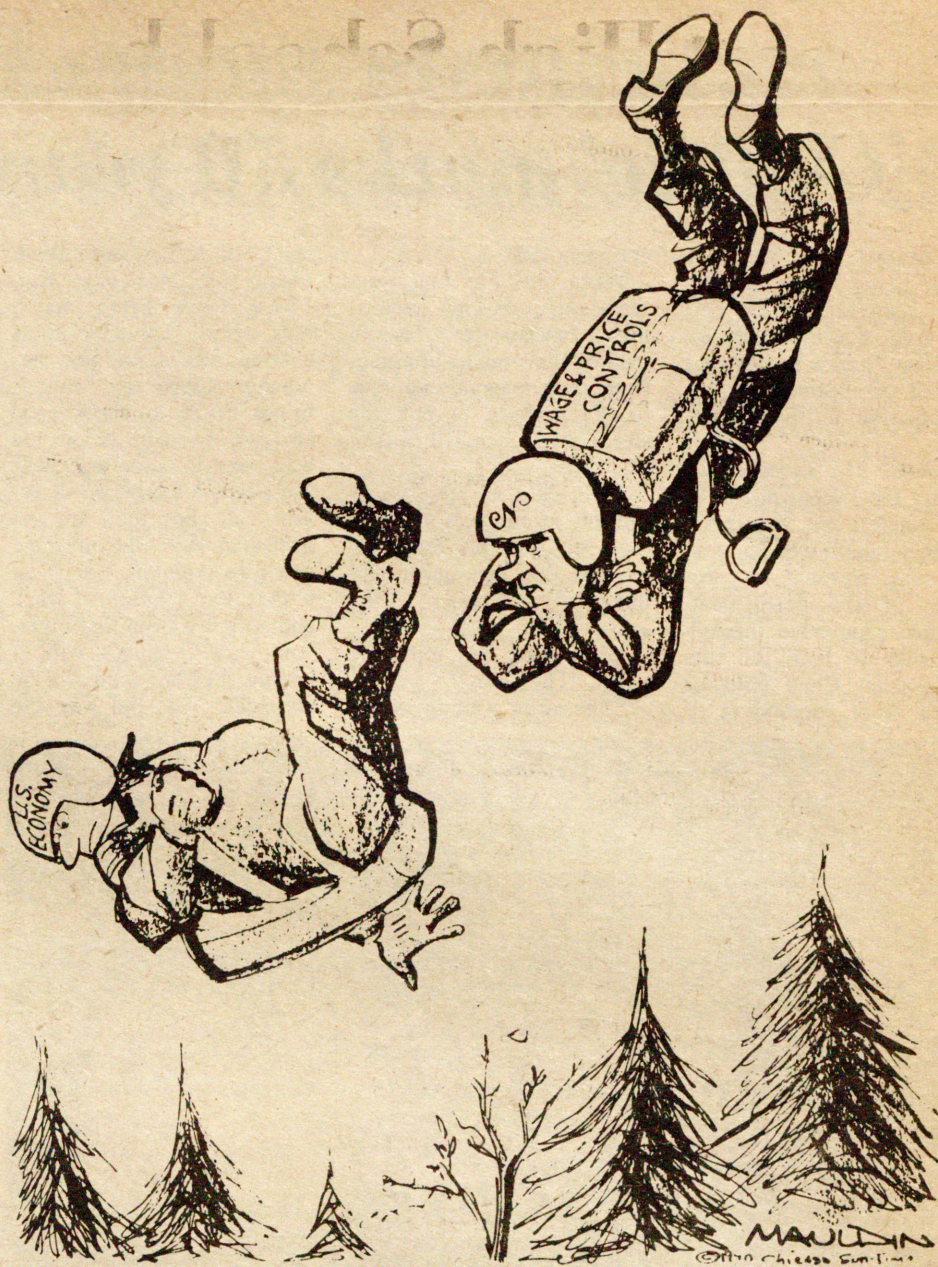

sance. Zoom, zoom, zoom!! Exit peace and serenity!

All of these cycles are owned and operated by youngsters who are under the age of sixteen. Most of them can't be more than twelve. These are not punks from Chicago, Joliet, or even Tinley Park. They live right here in Lincolnwood. Let's get that straight, so that the parents of these cyclists don't blame this noisy stupidity on "outsiders." Let the blame rest on the proper shoulders.

These kids get bored just racing up and down, two by two, so they play Tag, they stand on the seats, and I even saw one of them roar up onto a neighbors lawn. An innocent toddler playing in his yard takes his chances, but if he should wander onto the road—forget it! (I am glad our boys are grown now.)

One wonders about the parents of these cyclists. How can they tolerate that noise? They can't possible escape from it. But, more than that, one can't help but to wonder why they live in a quiet community like this. The ironic part of this is, they probably moved out here for basically the same reasons that most people have for living here.

Name withheld by request.

Rat Extermination— who's responsible?

by Sherida Berning

A situation of rats inhabiting a gully in the 700 block of Walnut Street in Lemont has raised an interesting question as to who is responsible.

And those venturing opinions consistently have said someone else is to blame.

The situation came to our attention two weeks ago when a resident of the block said she had found four dead rats in her yard in the two months she has lived there.

"There are all sorts of cats in the area, and they may be bringing them up. If it were just on our property, we would put out some poison, but we don't want to hurt an animal or any of the children. Putting out poison in our yard wouldn't help anyway," she said.

Upon contacting the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the family was advised to contact Dr. Barry Ladd, Lemont Health Officer and member of the village board. "We called him several times and he was never there."

I took matters into my own hands and asked Dr. Ladd what should be done. "If they are their rats, they have to take care of them," he replied. "They won't like that, but people expect governments to do everything, and they can't."

Dr. Ladd's reply seems a little simplistic for the situation.

Like the woman who first complained said, the village will pay $150 a month to pick up stray dogs, but will do nothing about rats.

One family can hardly be expected to exterminate an area bordering on several private properties; exterminating the area behind one home would be worthless; and yet, rats are too serious a health problem to let go unnoticed.

So I checked with the Cook County Health Department and the Attorney General's office.

Who is responsible depends on the cause of the rats, says Steve Nich, a sanitary engineer for the county Board of Health. "If the residents are dumping garbage into the area, it is up to them to stop. If it is other people dumping, or a cause not related to the people who live along the area, it is up to the village to remedy the problem."

Nich said his office would send inspectors if the residents would write his office explaining the problem. "We can advise, but we have no rat extermination facilities ourselves."

Upon the recommendation of the health department, the attorney general's office can make the village take care of the problem, a spokesman from the office said.

So that's how it stands. We suggest Walnut Street residents start composing a letter to the health department.

The Southwest Graphic welcomes any and all news concerning club and individual activities and extends this word of appreciation to all who have sent stories or photographs in the past. We would like to print it all, but space limitations make this impossible. In order to make room for your story, we should have the information before the event but no later than Friday of the week in which it occurs. We will not be able to publish news more than a week old. Stories then will be ranked according to their news value. You may mail or call in information to our offices in Lemont, Lockport or Mokena.

Joliet YMCA Camp

Where summer dreams come true

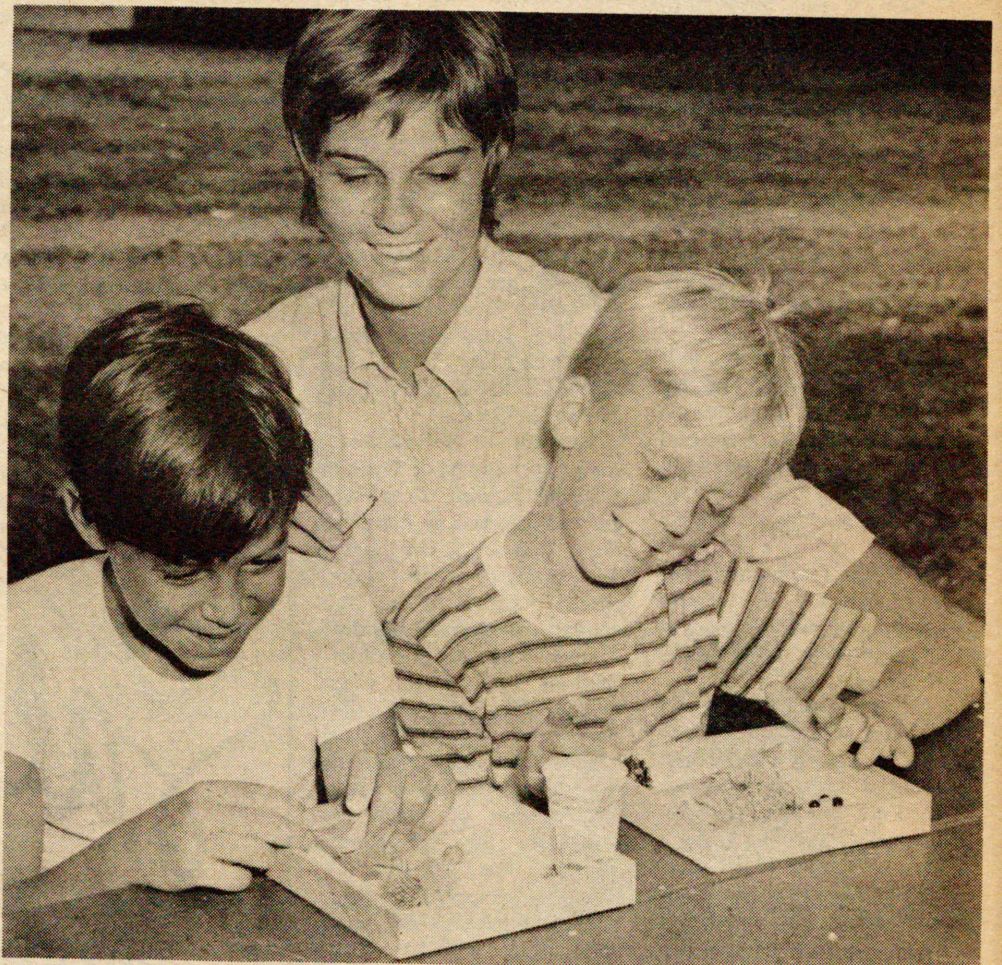

SOUTHWEST -- With summer heading into the home stretch, YMCA day campers enjoy the out-of-doors at their site at the Ohio Athletic Club in Shorewood. This is the eighth season that the Ohio Athletic Club, managed by Peter Wiskewski, has cooperated in giving the boys and girls of the Joliet area a camping experience during the day and yet allowing the youngsters to return home each evening. Gerald Galowich, chairman of the YMCA Boys Work Committee which organizes day camp, said the program has grown from 150 boys and girls in 1963 to over 600 youngsters attending camp in 1970.

Bill Bartelt, Director of Camp Joydaka, heads up a staff of 16 senior and junior counselors who supervise the activities at camp. Some of these activities include nature, crafts, air riflery, drawing, dancing, tumbling, archery, sports, hiking, fishing, and cooking-out. The campers also receive a half hour swim lesson on 9 of the 10 days of each period.

The fifth session of camp is now in session for Lockport area children, and there are openings for boys and girls 7 through 10 years of age in the sixth period which started Monday, and will run through Friday, Sept. 4.

For mothers that are hearing the end-of-the-summer blues, "There's nothing to do," Camp Joydaka offers an exciting experience in learning new skills, studying nature, and making new friends. For further information, call the Joliet YMCA at 726-5361.

Chelsea addition opened

FRANKFORT -- The addition to Chelsea School and the remodeling work at Frankfort School has been completed for all practical purposes and the two schools were ready for the opening this week.

Teachers' institute was conducted Monday. Tuesday pupils attended half a day, and today, classes were in full bloom.

There are still some things to be done at both buildings but the facilities are useable, it was pointed out at the meeting of the school board last week.

All kindergarten, first, second, third and fourth grade classes are housed at the Chelsea School in Connecticut Hills. Pupils from the fifth grade through eighth attend Frankfort School.

Repair of the west roof at Frankfort School remains to be completed. Wayne Johnson Construction Co. has been given the job of replacing the section with fire retardant materials for a price of $656.

Tentative approval of the budget was given. The annual appropriation measure is on public display at the school office in Frankfort School. Final approval will be given at the meeting Sept. 14.

The total appropriation, based on estimated expenditures, is $760,340. Broken down it runs like this:

Educational fund	$407,805
Building fund	40,345
Bond & interest	89,171
Transportation	29,600
Illinois Municipal Retirement fund	5,140
Site and construction	188,279
	$760,340

According to a board spokesman the educational fund is $100,000 higher than last year's, principally due to the employment of nine staff members and development of a program making use of teacher aides.

The building fund for maintenance is up $14,000 because of expanded facilities and the bond and interest fund is up about $60,000

Fall program schedule for United Methodist

Delores Anderson
Telephone 485-2365

Church school arrangements have been revised for the fall program schedule at the United Methodist Church. The new times will begin in September with the children's classes, nursery through sixth grade, meeting at 9:30 a.m. Classes in the youth division will meet at 11 a.m.

The new arrangement will help to make duplicate use of the crowded facilities. More use of present space will be made in the Fellowship Hall where carpeting for the class areas will make it possible to hold four instead of two classes at the same time. A dividing wall is being erected in the basement under the sanctuary to provide for additional class space.

Both of the church school sessions will be held simultaneously with the church service of worship. In this way families with children can come to church together. While children are in classes, parents can attend church at 9:30 a.m.

Bonnie Bolker attended a special workshop at Northern Illinois University during the week of July 19-24. The purpose of the workshop was to acquaint high school students with the future of special education. Bonnie was one of fifty high school students who attended the program at Northern.

The annual lay retreat of the United Methodist church will be held on the weekend of Sept. 18-20 at Lake Geneva Conference Point. It is hoped that a large group of men from the local church will take advantage of this opportunity to meet with men of churches of the Northern Illinois Conference. Anyone interested should contact Harry Geyer, for more information about the costs and program. This year's theme is Christian Witness in a Time of Tension. Woodie White of the Commission on Religion and Race of this denomination will be a leader.

Building at all-time low

SOUTHWEST — Permits for single family homes during the first six months of 1970 dropped to a new postwar low in the Chicago metropolitan area, and local figures are no exception.

Apartments are at the lowest level since 1967, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of new building.

In Lockport, all new building for June, 1970, totaled $61,440 compared to at total of $120,987 for the same month last year. Neither Romeoville nor Bolingbrook reported figures, although they do have listings for last year.

The building figure for Lockport includes the construction of only one new single-family residence for the month while three were built in the same month last year. The home is valued at $27,000.

Brazil produced 410-million pounds of tobacco last year, an increase of 29 per cent over 1967.

Court gives Frankfort library district status

FRANKFORT -- The Frankfort Public Library has now changed from a village library to a district library. The change was effected by a circuit court order signed by Judge Stewart C. Hutchison.

The district boundaries coincide currently with those of the Village of Frankfort and there will be no change in the service or the tax structure, according to a spokesman for the library board. The board is also the same, the court having appointed the same people as were elected.

The difference between the village library and the new district library lies in the fact that the district library, through referendum, can annex territory. The village library boundaries had to remain constant with boundaries of the village.

The district library hopes to expand its boundaries so they would include all of Frankfort Grade School District 157-C, and Ann Rutledge Grade School District 56-C, which would include a part of the Hoffman-Rosner housing development, which has been started in the vicinity of U.S. 30 and Harlem Ave.

On Sept. 21 the Frankfort library board is scheduled to meet with the Mokena district library board at the Mokena library to discuss a possible expansion program for both districts.

The Mokena library boundaries coincide with those of Mokena School District 159, with the exception of the Rolling Heights subdivision which is in New Lenox Township and therefore a part of the New Lenox Township Library.

The natural expansion of the Mokena district would be to include Summit Hill School District 161, it was said. This would provide library service for residents of Arbury Hills and that part of the Hoffman-Rosner development that lies in the Dist. 161.

If an expansion program is undertaken, it was pointed out, the referendums could be held at the same time. Such an expansion would make no difference to those already in either district, as far as taxes or service are concerned. The only ones it would effect would be the property owners in the annexed area. The library tax is 12 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation.

The two area libraries are a part of the Bur Oak system which provides books and materials that otherwise would be available only in large city libraries.

The Frankfort library board members appointed by the court are: Dr. Irving Rudman, president; Pearl Cheney, vice-president; Marian Nordsell, secretary; Donald Fullerton, treasurer; Ralph Dralle, Judith McMillen, and Sherrill Weichbrodt.

Two members will be elected in the spring.

Deadline near for real estate taxes

JOLIET -- Will County Treasurer W.F. (Wally) Schuetz has announced that he will open his office the morning of Saturday, Aug. 29, to accommodate residents who wish to pay the second installment of their real estate taxes prior to the Sept. 1 deadline.

"We are opening the office for the convenience of those residents who did not make full payment to their township collectors prior to June 1," Schuetz said in making the announcement.

All second installment taxes must be paid prior to Tuesday, Sept. 1.

"For those wishing to mail their payments to this office," Schuetz explained, "the payment must be postmarked no later than Monday, Aug. 31."

In announcing that his office will open Saturday, Aug. 29, Schuetz said, "We have found in the past that county residents take advantage of this opportunity to make their payments while shopping in Joliet."

Schuetz said there is a one per cent per month penalty on tax payments not paid before Sept. 1.

N. Lenox to foreclose on sewer bill liens

NEW LENOX -- Collection of delinquent sewer service bills occupied considerable attention at the village board meeting here last Wednesday night.

There is $13,738.86 due the village from this source, it was reported by Roy Dowle, business manager for the village, covering a period of several years.

Of this amount $7,679.94 is covered by liens on which the village can foreclose, and $5,358.92 is about to be covered by liens on 44 accounts.

Dowle has been empowered to file the 44 new liens. He is sending letters to these debtors, notifying them that if they have not paid or made arrangements to pay their sewer bills in 15 days liens will be filed against their property.

The board also gave him authority to enter into arrangement with those owing large sums to give them a 90-day period in which to pay what they owe, but those owing $100 or less must lay the cash on the line.

There are some exceptions to getting the 15-day notice, however. Anyone who is about to sell his house or has it for sale will get no notice. Instead the lien will be filed immediately.

There are many municipalities that protect themselves against reluctant payers by requiring all householders, owners or tenants, to have a deposit of at least $25 on file and also have ordinances covering properties that are sold which pass unpaid water and sewer bills on to the new owners. And in the case of a renter the owner is held responsible for unpaid bills of this nature.

New Lenox does not require a deposit nor does it have any ordinance holding purchaser of property responsible for any unpaid sewer bills.

Last week the village board authorized the writing off of $1,317.70 in sewer bills because the property had been sold and the new owner as well as the old had only a modified wave of the hand for the village.

Some of those old bills covered by liens date back several years. By foreclosing on them the village should recover most of the money, it was said. There will be court and attorney fees, but the action would be profitable for the village, it was agreed.

The value of a lien has always been that if unsatisfied it leaves a bit of fog on the title of the property involved. Purchasers of property as a general rule do not pay until titles are clear, it was pointed out. But if the title searchers fail to jot down a lien the purchaser may be ignorant of the fact that there is a little flaw in the title and pays his money.

Dowle told the board that he had found that in some property sales in New Lenox the sewer bill lien apparently went unnoted, although it was recorded. It was pointed out that a person purchasing a house should -- in self protection -- make inquiry at the village or city hall to ascertain if the owner owes a water or sewer bill or has failed to meet any other bills the municipality may have against him.

The number of persons owing the $7,679.94, does not exceed 20, Dowle told the board, so some of them owe rather substantial sums.

Charles Craigmile, of 199-12 Anna St., was not hurt when his car overturned at 1 a.m. Aug. 18, on LaPorte Rd., according to the Mokena police report. The report states that Craigmile, traveling west, swerved suddenly to avoid a section of log on the road. The car went out of control and overturned. Craigmile was wearing a seat belt. The accident occurred on a curve, about midway between Wolf Rd. and U. S. 45.

Mrs. Helen Guendling of North Wolf Road, Mokena, recently returned home after an extended western trip, which included a month's stay at her daughters, Christine Guendling of Rodando Beach, Calif.

The Berklee College of Music, Boston, the International Educational Institution for Study of Modern American Music, has enrolled Mike Lloyd Hodgman of Mokena, in its freshman class of 1970-71. Berklee offers a B. M. degree with majors in Music Education, Composition and Applied Music. A professional diploma course is also offered which encompasses all music subjects.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stark and family will make their new home in Mokena the first of September. He is a teacher at Lincoln-Way High School.

Burglars loot home

MOKENA — Burglars carried off loot valued at approximately $900 from the home of Jens Notestein, 10945 First Ave. the night of Aug. 16.

The family was on vacation in Iowa and a neighbor discovered the break-in and notified Mokena police. Persons in the neighborhood were outdoors most of the daylight hours of Sunday and Monday, it was said, so it was believed the theft was carried out under cover of darkness.

The list of stolen articles includes a movie camera, a projection screen tripod and kit, for editing film; a portable TV, three radios, two of them clock types, a 10-speed blender, a stereo turntable, and $3 from a piggy bank.

There was no ransacking of drawers and no damage was done to the house.

When someone said people are unpredictable, he did not have in mind tax collectors.

Father Koop leaving Mokena

by Glenn Logan
MOKENA -- Father Cecil Koop, O.F.M., pastor of St. Mary Church here for almost 17 years, is leaving Mokena. An order priest he is subject to the orders of the headquarters of the Order of Friars Minor at St. Louis, Mo., and is being sent to Our Lady of Angels parish at Cleveland.

A Franciscan travels light. He has his robe, his clericals, some books, and in Father Cecil's case, a dog with a short fused temper, and possibly a dozen different hats.

The pastor of St. Mary turned his hand to many things. Besides conducting his regular services at the church and saying his offices, he drove the school bus, joined in various activities with laity, was a school administrator, a carpenter, bricklayer, laborer, fund raiser, businessman, an architect, and a builder.

When he came to Mokena there were 50 families in parish and one could tuck all the youngsters in the parish school in one room and didn't have to have a large one either. Now there are 600 families and a school with an enrollment of 400 and 16 classrooms.

After Father Cecil came this began to change. He made friends throughout the community and as he expanded into the life of the town so did his parishioners.

As the parish began to grow he launched a building campaign moving west on 195th to the present site of the church and school. Building the church and school was just the beginning.

The mortar was scarcely dry before it became necessary to add a bit here and another bit there. Now there is a big school, a convent for the nuns who teach there, along with a staff from the laity, and, of course, the "Cow Palace."

This is that huge room joining the church and school at the rear, that Father Cecil started out as a garage. Not a really big garage, you understand, but one that could accommodate a bus... well, maybe two buses.

But it kept growing. And each time a bit was added or a bit was put on there, Father Cecil would have to go to the Chancery at Joliet and get the OK of the Bishop, for title to all the church property in the diocese vests in the bishop.

When Bishop Romeo Blanchette came to the dinner with which St. Mary Parish finished up the celebration of its 100th anniversary, he looked at the expanse all those additions to a garage he had granted permits for, had added up to and in his role as speaker at the dinner he named it the "Cow Palace," a name that has stuck since.

Last June the people of Mokena turned out, with many from the adjoining area, to join the parish in honoring Father Koop, as most call him, on the 25th anniversary of his ordination.

The people of Mokena are sorry to see Father Koop leave -- they really like the guy.

His successor will be Father Patrick Curtis, who is being transferred from Memphis, Tenn.

Arbury Hills

The Burros Football teams will have their first game of the season against the teams from Normal. They will play at the Mokena Park, Sunday, Aug. 30, starting at noon.

The All-Star Day for the Arbury Hills Baseball League came off in fine form in spite of the early morning rainstorm.

The first game matched the Farm Teams All-Stars against one half of the B Team All-Stars.

It was a spirited affair with the final score at 6-6 after a B Team rally in the final inning to tie the score.

The second game set the other half of the B Team All-Stars against the A Team. It was a one sided rout with the A Team winning a nine to zero shut out. The A Team pitcher, Chip Terracins, threw a no-hit game.

The third game was a happy show with the Pony Team meeting an assortment of Coaches, Managers, and other willing volunteers. In their wild delirium it was decided to make it a full nine inning game.

Lorene Hahn wed to Charles H. Elliot

LOCKPORT — Baskets of multicolored flowers decked the altar at the wedding of Lorene Cathy Hahn to Charles H. Elliott. The ceremony was August 1 at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy J. Hahn, 204 East Fifth Street, Lockport. Mr. Elliott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott, 2728 Lockport Road, Lockport.

The bride wore a toe-touching gown of white silk organza, featuring an empire fitted bodice with a scoop neckline and long Juliet sleeves, with overall schiffli embroidery in a daisy pattern entwined with lattice work.

Her veil of silk illusion was held by a headpiece of handmade organza flowers.

Miss Kathy Hall was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Leanne Vahle, sister of the bride; Lynelle Hahn, also the bride's sister; Carol Elliott, the groom's sister; Mrs. Patti Richter, Ann Lindenbaum, Mrs. Gloria Dzak, Suzi Davis, and Helen Burris.

Paul Marsh was the best man. The groom's attendants were Lex Hahn, Jim Vahle, Arnie Munchalfen, Steve Karwoski, Jim Bromberek, Mark, Ray, and Mike Rogina.

Michalene Burton was the flower girl and Michael Elliott, the groom's brother, the ring bearer. The bride's train was carried by Joann Matkovic.

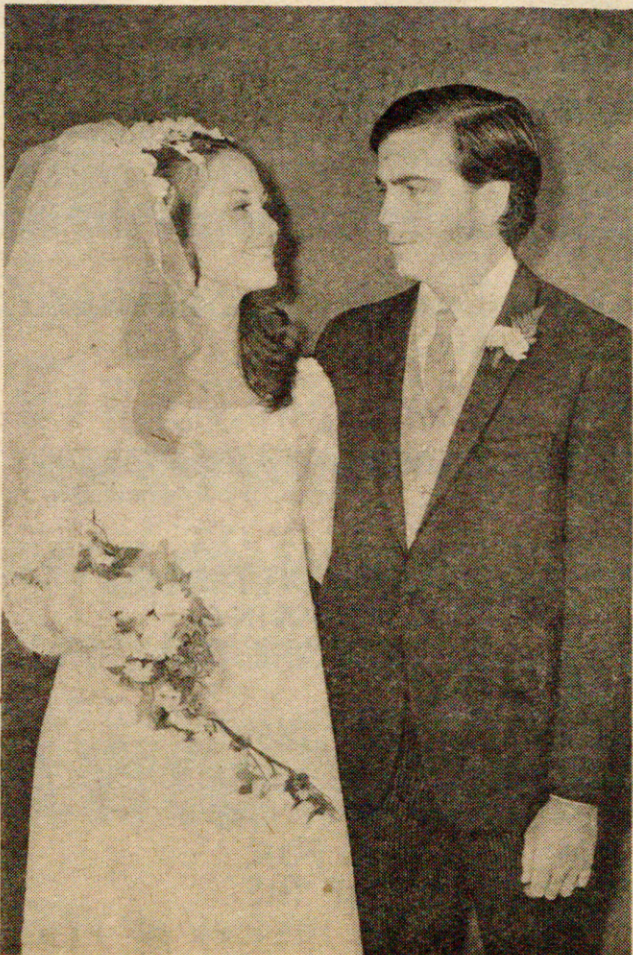

Jim Stephenson, Jr. accompanied Mrs. Wayne Buske who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "One Hand, One Heart."

A reception was at D'Amico's 214 for five hundred and fifty guests. Music was provided by the "Three Jays."

Patty Garvin and Karen Matkovic cared for the guest book and Betty Wittkofski cut the wedding cake.

After a three week honeymoon through the western United States, the newlyweds will reside at 1028 S. Jefferson Street, Lockport.

In keeping with the 1890 theme that will mark the annual fall festival at Frankfort over the Labor Day weekend will be a "country" store where one may acquire all kinds of things. For instance here is this afghan being shown by three of the women who will be tending store, (l to r) Mrs. Roger Corp, Mrs. Lillian Burg and Mrs. Clara Schellhase.

Staff photos by Carl Voss

Jerrie Haigh, (center) owner of YeOlde Trunk, shows some of her wares to chairmen of the antique stores open house, Mrs. Ray Wohlfert (left) and Mrs. Kenneth Emsminger. This open house will be part of the Frankfort Fall Festival Sept. 5-7.

LOCKPORT -- Over 300 applications for admission to fall semester evening courses at Lewis-St. Francis College have been received, according to the Reverend David M. Clarke, provost of the merging Lockport and Joliet institutions.

Students were expected to submit credentials before August 24, including two high school transcripts and credits from all colleges attended, Father Clarke said. Registration is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 27, between Gillette's D Company won the drill competition conducted in conjunction with commencement activities. Until his duties as cadet captain intervened in his senior year young Gillette won honors in the school band, and was also a contributor to the academy's literary magazine. On graduation he was awarded an ROTC scholarship and will enter North East Missouri College at Kirksville, in September, where he will continue with his musical studies and major in business administration.

Two kingsize zucchini grown by Emile Wille, 82d Ave., Lincoln Estates, are shown here by Mrs. Wille. The one on the left is 18 inches long and weighs seven pounds; the one at the right is one inch shorter and two pounds lighter.
